Course Format: Seminar style with class discussions, guest speakers, and student presentations

Calendar Description:

Students will critically assess and integrate foodservice management literature and theories from undergraduate coursework to address the multifactorial issues of foodservice operations in healthcare. Case studies presented by expert guests and operational projects will support student synthesis and evaluation of the literature.

Objectives of the Course

Foodservice management in the healthcare setting is a complex, multi-dimensional endeavor. The individual who manages foodservice operations must draw upon his/her cross –disciplinary theoretical background related to dietetics, food science, food microbiology, human resources, operational and fiscal management and apply theory to a dynamic environment. Students will be asked to critically assess the literature in developing creative oral and written resolutions to the real world issues that arise in foodservice operations in healthcare.

By the end of this course the student will be able to:

- Apply theoretical management principles to the complex interplay of financial constraints and Ministry of Health and Long Term Care standards in a long term care foodservice operation
- Employ management strategies to translate Ministry of Health and Long Term Care standards into plans for menu development, staffing, staff education, meal service and nutrition care while considering labour relation issues
- Objectively appraise the role of Continuous Quality Improvement in the evaluation operational outcomes/expectations on all aspects of the operation from client satisfaction to fiscal management and employee retention.
- Integrate fiscal management principles in the completion of assignments and projects from the long term care foodservice context keeping in mind Ministry of Health and Long Term Care standards and best practices as identified in the literature.
- Incorporate principles of adult learning in the creation of an in-service plan for a specific target group in a foodservice/ healthcare setting

- Review key marketing principles and formulate marketing strategies for a long term care foodservice operation
- Formulate the product development process for an innovative food product or service to support client nutritional needs and budgetary constraints
- Objectively critique an emergency plan

Learning Activities and Evaluation - See Performance Assessments on Courselink

1. Operations SWOT Analysis (20%)

Students will prepare and present at SWOT of their last placement.

2. In-Service Planning Project (20%)

Incorporating principles of adult learning, each student will be responsible for developing and delivering a specific 10 - 15 minute In-Service to a defined target group on one of the following broad topic areas:

Students will be evaluated on the effectiveness of the design of the In-Service Plan and the ability to engage the target audience during the presentation.

3. Journal Article Review & Discussion (15%)

Students will choose a Journal Article related to foodservice management and will critically evaluate the journal article drawing on feedback from FRAN 6740 students during class discussion (30 minutes). In a 1-2 page summary report, the student facilitators will outline how the literature findings of their chosen journal article could be used to resolve a real foodservice issue in a healthcare environment. Students can use an article from the reading list, or search a new article. Topics include:

- CQI (Continuous Quality Improvement)
- Effective Leadership & Management
- Financial Management
- Human Resource Management
- Product Development
- Marketing
- Emergency Planning
- Malnutrition in Health and Long Term Care
- Sustainability in Food Services

4. New Product presentation (10%)

Students will attend the Restaurants Canada Annual Conference (Feb 28 - March 1, Direct Enercare Centre, Toronto <https://restaurantshow.ca/>) and identify one new product or service applicable to the health or long-term care setting. Students will present the product to the class, discuss its relevance to the foodservice environment and critically analyze its efficacy.

Include pictures of the item or the item itself (in the case of a service, include promotional materials).

- ❖ Explain the product/service intended use, features and benefits.
- ❖ Relate the uses to the health and/or long term care environment.
- ❖ Describe considerations for the use of the product/service – what is the downside?
- ❖ Outline similar products/services and their success (if you can find data related to this). What predictions do you have for the success of this new/product service and why?
- ❖ Include references and supporting documentation.

5. Long term care (LTC) Operations Assessment project (30%)

Students will assume a consulting role as they explore in great depth, Ministry of Health (MOHLTC) standards, legislation and best practices for nutrition, foodservice and meal service within the context of a long term care facility. Students will be asked to critically analyze issues related to menu planning, meal service, nutrition care, finance and human resource management
